Featuring: Wendy Jones, MEd, MSW

Children & Youth with Special Health Care Needs Project, National Center for Cultural Competence, Georgetown University Center for Child and Human Development

Ms. Jones will be facilitating an interactive workshop to assist dental professionals in providing cultural and linguistically competent service delivery. This workshop will be particularly helpful for providers working with vulnerable population groups, such as dental residents, community health center dental program providers, and public health dental hygienists.

Personal appointments to discuss specific inquiries concerning cultural and linguistic competence may also be scheduled with Ms. Jones for a limited time period immediately following the afternoon session.
